

THE WOMEN OF FLUSHING.

HOW THEY PLANNED A CAMPAIGN AND THROWN TO THE POLLS.

Having the School Election Fixed, but Failing to Secure Their Candidate—Mrs. Orange Judd Vetoed by Mr. H. W. Downing.

The ladies of Flushing closed a well-fought campaign yesterday with one of the most exciting elections ever held in that village. A dozen private carriages whirled through the streets all day, bringing invalids and the aged to the polls. Gentleman friends acted as challengers for them. Nearly half the votes were cast by ladies, and at least half the votes cast were challenged. It was hot from noon, when the polls were opened, until 8 o'clock, when they were closed.

District Attorney Benjamin W. Downing is a very popular man. He has been one of the five school trustees of Flushing for nine years, and it said he has done more for education than any other man in the court's. His natural friendliness has prompted him to be especially kind to many teachers, which he was able to do through his extensive acquaintance all around Long Island. Often he has been known in his seat to take a lady in his carriage and introduce her to the trustees of a neighboring school district. Almost any person in the village is free to ride with him. His general conduct, it is claimed, has not changed in any respect for years, but lately it has been alleged that he has from time to time shown partiality to various teachers in the schools by inviting them to ride with him, and showing them other political attentions. Certain teachers who did not receive these attentions or who refused them became fearful, and said, that they might lose their places. This was taken over in the social circles, and finally it was made one of the reasons why some thought there ought to be a lady to succeed him in office.

For some time the ladies of Flushing had been talking of putting one of their number in nomination for a school trustee. Last year Mrs. Orange Judd was asked to be a candidate, but she refused them because she would not run against Samuel B. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Downing while the Democratic paper supported the anti-slavery cause. The Republican newspaper supported her and attacked Mr. Downing while the Democratic paper supported the anti-slavery cause.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher. The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

The school is naturally a school for girls, but Mr. Downing, a Democrat, would have carried it, as a matter of course. The ladies nominated Mrs. Judd, and the men nominated Mr. Parsons.

The Republican newspaper supported the ladies' cause, and attacked Mr. Parsons. This fall Mrs. Mar. R. Peck and Miss Hattie Baker, two wealthy ladies of the county, with others who are agitating the women's suffrage question, made Mrs. Judd promise to run, although it is believed that she would not do so unless she had reason that the campaign was to be as hot and personal as it was against Mr. Downing. Mrs. Peck is President of the Society of Friends of the Poor of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Baker is a member of the Board of Managers of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

The ladies' campaign was conducted in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Judd is of a retiring disposition, but she is a good speaker. She is President of the Women's Employment Society of Flushing. She was formerly a school teacher.

THE MALLEY BOYS' DEFENCE.

Controlling Important Witnesses and Upsetting a Theory of the State.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 11.—The defense in the Malley murder trial to-day called Horace Woods and wife of East Haven to contradict the State's witness, Samuel B. Bunnell, who testified that he saw John Crane and James Malley, Jr., at Savin Rock on Friday night, Aug. 5. They testified that Bunnell was not at the beach that night, but was in his own house. Mr. and Mrs. Woods, Deputy Sheriff Peck, and the father of Bunnell all testified that the latter's reputation for truth and veracity was bad. The lawyers for the defense are talking to-night of arresting Bunnell for perjury.

James H. Cannon, a hortler, was called to contradict Joseph Marvin, who swore that on seeing Jennie Crane's dead body he at once recognized it as that of the girl he had seen riding on the flying horses where he was employed, the night before. Cannon testified that he had stood looking at the body on the beach, Marvin came up and said that the body was his. The boy was riding on the flying horses the night before, and when Cannon saw him he knew well, and who he was.

William A. Peck, in charge of the Government improvements in New Haven, came to the rescue of Marvin, who was to be tried for the killing of his wife. Peck said that Marvin had been a good citizen, and that he had no right to be tried for the killing of his wife.

The defense will argue that to-day's cross-examination developed the fact that soon after the shooting of Marvin, he was seen riding on the water near the heavy wharf houses where the tide would carry him, the result was the same as with the stock he rode in.

Mr. Peck's defense is that he is not a party to the shooting of Marvin, but that he is a party to the killing of his wife. Peck said that Marvin was riding on the beach when he was shot, and that he was shot in the back, and that he died in the water.

The defense will argue that to-day's cross-examination developed the fact that soon after the shooting of Marvin, he was seen riding on the water near the heavy wharf houses where the tide would carry him, the result was the same as with the stock he rode in.

Mr. Peck's defense is that he is not a party to the shooting of Marvin, but that he is a party to the killing of his wife. Peck said that Marvin was riding on the beach when he was shot, and that he was shot in the back, and that he died in the water.

The defense will argue that to-day's cross-examination developed the fact that soon after the shooting of Marvin, he was seen riding on the water near the heavy wharf houses where the tide would carry him, the result was the same as with the stock he rode in.

Mr. Peck's defense is that he is not a party to the shooting of Marvin, but that he is a party to the killing of his wife. Peck said that Marvin was riding on the beach when he was shot, and that he was shot in the back, and that he died in the water.

The defense will argue that to-day's cross-examination developed the fact that soon after the shooting of Marvin, he was seen riding on the water near the heavy wharf houses where the tide would carry him, the result was the same as with the stock he rode in.

Mr. Peck's defense is that he is not a party to the shooting of Marvin, but that he is a party to the killing of his wife. Peck said that Marvin was riding on the beach when he was shot, and that he was shot in the back, and that he died in the water.

The defense will argue that to-day's cross-examination developed the fact that soon after the shooting of Marvin, he was seen riding on the water near the heavy wharf houses where the tide would carry him, the result was the same as with the stock he rode in.

Mr. Peck's defense is that he is not a party to the shooting of Marvin, but that he is a party to the killing of his wife. Peck said that Marvin was riding on the beach when he was shot, and that he was shot in the back, and that he died in the water.

The defense will argue that to-day's cross-examination developed the fact that soon after the shooting of Marvin, he was seen riding on the water near the heavy wharf houses where the tide would carry him, the result was the same as with the stock he rode in.

Mr. Peck's defense is that he is not a party to the shooting of Marvin, but that